Are you eligible for an e-Visa?

If you come from some countries that are visa exempt and you are only in Vietnam for a short stay, then you may not need a visa at all. Otherwise, applying for eVisa online is the most easier way for you to obtain a visa to Vietnam. As of October 2018, there are 46 countries are eligible for an eVisa including United States, United Kingdom, Germany, Netherlands, New Zealand, Denmark, Norway, Poland, South Korea, Finland, Sweden, Spain, and Japan.

Make sure your passport has at least six months of validity left and that it has two or more blank pages for the visa stamps. You'll also need a printed copy of the E-visa. Vietnam also recommends two passport-sized photos (4cm x 6cm or 5cm x 5cm) along with a colored copy of your passport photo page to make sure the visa application process goes smoothly.

Be aware that E-visas are valid for 30 days, are single-entry only and non-renewable. You must use the E-visa within six months of receiving the paperwork. The 30-day clock starts once you enter the country.
