Train Street: The new attraction of Hanoi

The Train Street has emerged recently to be a famous location for tourists to capture the local life in Hanoi. Twice a day a high-speed train whistles past homes whose doors are just a few feet away from the rushing locomotive. You will see women tending to their rail side garden, children playing on the tracks and men using it as a place to sit and relax. When the train arrives people just wait behind the doors for some minutes for it to pass before carry on with their daily activities once again.
