VIETNAM DOING ITS BEST TO COMBAT CORONAVIRUS: HEALTH OFFICIAL

Vietnam is doing its best to control the acute respiratory disease caused by the 2019 novel coronavirus (nCoV), focusing on carrying out multi-level isolation for those suspected of infection.

To prepare for the worst scenario of the disease outbreak in the community, the Ministry of Health (MoH) has asked 22 central-level hospitals to arrange 3,000 beds for treating patients.

As of February 19th, 2020, Vietnam has 16 infection cases total, of which 14 patients already recovered, per government update.
